LAMARCK UNIVERSITY

As the story goes, between 1880 and 1940 the Lamarck University was thriving with both the children of wealthy locals and the children of Colonial residents. In the 1940's the University was closed, mothballed and stood still in time. A number of the buildings were lost and all of it fell into disrepair. Luckily, SunGroup saw the potential and commissioned the world famous architect Bill Bensley to return the site to its former glory, this time in the form of Phu Quoc's most elegant international five-star hotel - the JW Marriott Phu Quoc Emerald Bay!

Welcome to the Lamarck University. Did you know you've just made history as one of the first to explore Vietnam's Hidden Pearl? After years of putting together the most enriching and enjoyable curricula, we can't wait to show you around. Architectural wizard, Bill Bensley, has woven awe-inspiring stories into every inch of his stunning design, from our mascot, the Phu Quoc Ridgeback dog, to teaching paraphernalia and sports trophies of old.

Once you've done enough exploring, don't forget to try our fun-tastical activities, right here on the campus or beyond. We look forward to making unforgettable memories with you during the semester.

At JW Marriott Phu Quoc Emerald Bay, we are committed to the global environment and in particular sustaining the ecosystems that surround our property. Our global environmental stewardship program is called the "Spirit to Preserve" and engages our guests, associates and communities in meaningful environmental programs and activities. Together with our environmental partner Flipper Diving Club, we work together to ensure the property's ecosystems are sustained for your present and future enjoyment. The resort's very own House Reef would allow you to safely explore life beneath the water's surface without setting foot off the property with the sessions ranged as below:

Learning sessions - education about the ecosystem, marine life and proper reef etiquette.

02:00 PM - 02:30 PM

Discover the house reef - A short swim to the House Reef to discover colorful underwater world with our biologists

3:00 PM - 4:00 PM

Evening Food Safari at Phu Quoc

Authentic Vietnamese, simply delicious and all you have to bring is an empty stomach. Phu Quoc's food culture is widely known for honouring traditional recipes with only the freshest ingredients available. Joining a local guide with an appetite for his local cuisine and knowledge of all the local spots; plus, no food tour will be complete without a stop to wet and seafood markets. The thriving trade of sellers versus buyers is a daily spectacle that is worth a stop as we further move along on our quest in finding the foodie side of the island. With insights and tips to bring home, your guide takes you to four different, gastronomical landmarks each unique in its own right. From sipping Rose Myrtle "Sim" wine to sinking your teeth in Chouchou de Phu Quoc and everything in between, we dare to say that this evening venture with you will leave you craving for more.

An introduction to Vietnamese Cuisine

No culinary corner is left unexplored during this morning food tour where the rich flavours and the essence of Vietnamese cuisine are taking centre stage. Accompanied by a local expert in terms of the gastronomical variety of Vietnam – and in particular Phu Quoc, guests are taken on a tasteful journey all the way from the raw ingredients to trying out your efforts in creating a delicious lunch. No cooking course and introduction to the Vietnam cuisine is complete without visiting a local market and two of Phu Quoc's specialities: pepper and Nuoc Mam (fish sauce). The rest of the morning, it is all you: the enthusiastic hosts will assist you in preparing a collection of local specialities before sharing your own creation with your fellow master chefs over lunch. The location? A private, hillside villa tucked away in a peaceful neighbourhood certainly will stimulate your cooking senses and taking your newly-learned skills back home.

Coral Conservation

Coral reefs are important and unique ecosystems that are self-sustaining and provide vital support for marine life. They play a crucial role in the environment through their contribution to the food chain, their reef building capacity and their important role in the carbon cycle.

One way to counteract and save what is left of this invaluable resource, is to rehabilitate coral reefs through coral propagation. We offer two comprehensive levels of education where scientific information and findings are made accessible and simplified for everyone to understand and get involved. Through the courses, you will learn about coral anatomy and how it grows.

You will also do your own fragmentation and propagation on our very own coral nurseries. Anyone can enroll, from those who want to stay dry to the professional divers who want to sign up for a unique underwater experience. Please contact Marine Learning Centre for bookings and confirmations

Island Hopping

EXPLORE THE AN THOI ARCHIPELAGO BY SPEEDBOAT

Explore the turquoise bays and warm waters of the southern islands of Phu Quoc, in the comfort of a speedboat. Visit quiet protected coves, where you can admire the abundant sea life in shallow reefs while snorkelling, or just relax under coconut trees on a sandy beach while watching the brilliant Vietnamese sunset.

Our experienced international guides include dive masters, instructors and marine biologists who are all trained in water safety. We never plan the route of the tour ahead of time, allowing us to follow the expectations and desires of our guests, as well as adjust to weather and water conditions. Whether you choose a half-day morning or afternoon trip, or book a private or shared boat, you will make unforgettable memories out on the ocean and below the waves.

Scuba Diving

Discover another side of Phu Quoc by heading out below the waves with our talented, reliable, conservation-minded dive masters. Whether you're taking your first underwater breath or you're an experienced diver, guests 8-years-old and up will be thrilled by the biodiversity of the coral reefs in these stunning islands.

The team of marine biologists and professional divers will show you the best spots, fascinating marine life, and a kaleidoscope of corals. We offer a wide range of PADI scuba diving activities and education, and also a complete program on coral conservation and replanting. In addition to the adventure, you'll come away from a dive trip with a better understanding of the fascinating coral ecosystems and the complex underwater world.
